Milking machines

Milking machines were designed to minimize human contact with milk which helps in maintaining hygiene during milking and produces a lower bacterial count. An added benefit of milking machine is saving cost and time effectively and having a output to improve economic benefits for dairy farmers.

Trolley-type milking machine is good for relatively small farmers who have a lesser number of cows and need to move milking machine relatively more. As this does not require to set up a power pack in a specific farm, it saves on the cost of construction for a designated place. The mobility of milking machine makes it easier to milk animals at their place without much problem.
